Goethe University Frankfurt am Main invites applications for the position of

in the Institute for Theater, Film and Media Studies at the Faculty of Modern Languages. This civil servant or public employee position will start as soon as possible.

This is a tenure-track position for an initial six-year term. If tenure is approved at the end of the term, the position will be made permanent and promotion to the rank of Distinguished Professor (W3) will be granted.

The successful candidate covers the breadth of cinema studies in teaching and has a research profile in film history with a focus on digital methods and/or digital film heritage. The position is responsible for the master’s course “Film Culture: Archiving, Programming, Presentation” (www.master-filmkultur.de), which is carried out in cooperation with the German Film Institute & Film Museum. Participation in interdisciplinary collaborative research initiatives, particularly within the framework of the Excellence Initiative, is expected as well as cooperation with the other areas of the institute, namely participation in the BA / MA courses and willingness to participate in university committees.

Habilitation or equivalent qualifications are required.

The formal hiring requirements are defined in the Hessian Higher Education Act (Hessisches Hochschulgesetz).

Goethe University is an equal opportunity employer, committed to diversity and inclusion. In particular, we are welcoming applications by qualified women and people with a migrant background. At Goethe University, a special emphasis is placed on creating and sustaining a family-friendly work and research environment. Where applicants are otherwise equally qualified, preference is given to candidates with disabilities or equivalent. The same applies to women in fields in which they are under-represented.
