

Language Matters! Writing your Dissertation in English

Objective

In today's academic world, researchers need to be able to produce clear, concise, well-written texts for diverse professional audiences. This online workshop supports PhD candidates who have to produce academic/scientific texts, e.g. their dissertation, in English as a foreign language.

We discuss issues ranging from standards of professional English texts for Anglo-Saxon or international research communities, to organizing ideas, and structuring texts. In addition, we look at how to present findings and opinions appropriately, and how to use correct terminology and vocabulary.

You work with your own texts as well as with examples from your own field of research. You discuss features of good academic/scientific texts and you are equipped to use adequate language in different genres and for different audiences. In addition, you receive peer feedback on your own drafts. All exercises empower you to produce better, reader-oriented texts within realistic time frames.

Description

- Taking inventory: strengths and challenges concerning academic/scientific writing in English
- Defining and developing appropriate language and style for different audiences
- Reporting results, ideas, and opinions: general considerations and precise wording
- Handling writing processes more professionally
- Organizing ideas, structuring texts: strategies and useful vocabulary
- Making yourself understood: principles of clear and concise writing
- Using peer feedback to revise texts
- Follow-up: During the workshop, you can register for an individual text feedback session/writing consultation with the trainer to further discuss your work in progress or additional questions concerning dissertation writing.

Methodology

Individual reflection, writing tasks, small-group work, plenary discussions, peer feedback, trainer input and optional follow-up (text feedback and writing consultation).

Conditions

Willingness to share experiences, to take part in practical individual and group tasks, and to use longhand writing.

Organizational Information

Language / FFormat	English / Online
Target group	Doctoral Candidates at all stages from all faculties
Date	Monday 30 January 2023, 10:00 – 17:00 Tuesday, 31 January 2023, 9:30 – 16:30
Registration	For registration click here

Trainer

Vera Leberecht
LEBERECHT.
writing with reason and resonance, Maastricht (NL)

Vera Leberecht studied Linguistics, Intercultural Communication and Theology in Germany and Finland. She worked at Maastricht University Language Centre for several years before starting her own training and consulting business in 2008. She is enthusiastic about empowering professionals to communicate with reason and resonance, in academia and beyond.