

Publishing in the English Language Academic Market for Non-native Speakers

Objective

No matter where you are from, and which language you primarily use for publishing, as a scholar it will always be helpful to earn your kudos with a few English language publications at least. In some academic fields, publications in other languages play hardly any role at all anymore.

So in this workshop, you will learn how to get your English language publications out there in a way that actually contributes to your academic career.

Description

While getting published in your primary language market may be difficult, international publishing in English can be somewhat overwhelming. Therefore, we will take a look at what you have to offer, where you want to go, and what it may take you to get there.

In this online workshop, we will take a close look at the following topics

- Criteria for choosing your partner – publisher or journal
- Knowing your resources, and knowing your audience
- How to get in touch
- How to get published

Methodolog

- Hot pen technique
- Breakout sessions
- Writing assignment
- Group share

Organizational Information

Language / Format	English / Online
Target group	Advanced Doctoral Candidates and Postdocs from all faculties
Date	Tuesday, 22 November 2022, 10:00 – 16:00
Registration	For registration click here

Trainer

Barbara Budrich
budrich training, Leverkusen

Barbara Budrich founded her own scholarly publishing company, Verlag Barbara Budrich, in 2004. In 2008, she set up her own training company budrich training to pass on her knowledge and decades of experience in academic writing and publishing to junior and senior scholars.