

Public Speaking and Stage Presence: Theater-based Training for Video Conferences

Objective

Learn to become a more confident speaker, to use body language and voice tone to really connect with people through dynamic face-to-face interactions. However, if you don't pay careful attention to your body language and tone of your voice, you might convey some meanings that you didn't intend.

Description

Enhance your interaction and presentation skills for better video conferences with theatre-based training.

Public speaking is a key skill, whatever your profession or faculty might be, and a path to recognition and success. If you want to reach the next level of influence, stage coaching is essential.

- How can you connect with your partners using your body language and voice and make your message matter in English?
- How to succeed at video-conferencing with engaging body language that underlines your message?

If you want to reach the next level of influence, stage coaching is essential.

This workshop helps

- to discover body language, mimic behavior and voice tone and use it in a smart, engaging way,
- to discover and increase confidence, control and charisma when presenting ideas, options or solutions, when listening to others, and
- to practice and optimize key messages to attract the audience.

Conditions

You need to bring along concrete examples to work with and improve, as the practical application of tips and tricks and techniques to your own presentation is at the heart of the workshop process.

In order to guarantee an excellent learning success, it is not possible to attend the workshop, if you come later or have to leave earlier.
